

When should I wear gloves?

Medicines management reminder

Gloves are generally not required for the following:

Medicines that might be harmful to you and require include:

- Cytotoxic medicines (i.e. chemotherapy)
- Mono-clonal antibodies (names end in “-mab”)
- Therapeutically active creams (such as antibiotic creams)

You might also wish to wear gloves if:

- You have a severe allergy to the medicine
- You're pregnant (due to lack of robust data for most drugs)
