

ICU Occupational Therapists

Occupational Therapists play a very important role in caring for critically ill patients and take a holistic approach to patient care.

Their assessment focus on a patient's cognition, psychological and physical condition using functional treatments. By getting to know their patients, occupational therapists are able to find purposeful rehabilitation and recovery pathways that not only meet their needs, but which are tailored to their personalities and preferences.

They are an important part of the diverse multi-professional team in intensive care. Intensive care occupational therapists are highly skilled and very well trained, and intensive care units could not function at such a high level without them.
